NUMBER 45

THE CONFERENCE.

In the list of homes assigned to members of the Conference last week, there were some errors made. A number of gentlemen, who had agreed to board members, had not given to the Committee the boarding houses selected, and were left off the list. We publish a few more names to-day. If any one is left off the list who have agreed to take members of the Conference, it is by mistake. Some who have agreed to board members of the Conference, have not yet reported to the Committee the boarding places selected. The brief is most requested to do this before the 25th.

All persons who have agreed to take, are requested to be upon the square Tuesday evening as the preachers arrive.

ORDINATION AT RUSSELL SPRINGS.

On September 8, 1907, pursuant to the call of Mt. Vernon Baptist Church to the Russell Springs Baptists of Russell Springs, C., to ordain one of her members, who had been called to the care of said Mt. Vernon Church, to the full work of the gospel ministry, a Presbytery was called, composed of (when organized) J. M. Pierce, Moderator, J. Grider, Secretary, W. B. Cave to question candidate on articles of faith, and to preach the sermon, C. F. Breeding to lead the prayer, C. M. Deener to give charge to both candidates at church. J. Wade, pastor of Russell Spring Church, together with Deacon's from Welfare at Mt. Vernon Churches. The candidate was rigidly examined and found to be sound in faith and doctrine of the Bible. The sermon was preached from Second Timothy 2: 15-13.

The Assembly was dismissed by candidate, Bro. B. F. Voils.

CIRCUIT COURT.

A very large crowd was in Columbia last Monday, the opening of circuit court. Judge Baker opened court promptly at 10 o'clock and the remainder of the forenoon was occupied in instructing the grand jury. The jury is composed of twelve good men and the usual instructions were given. The following compose the two juries:

PETIT JURY.

W. B. Cave Foreman, Bob Royse, J. E. Flowers, W. H. C. Sandridge, John Johnson, Dink Dillingham, John M. Conover, Valentine Leftwich, Mont Montgomery, G. R. Akin, King Rogers, and George Flowers.

SUCCESSFUL OPERATION.

Miss Minnie Triplett of this place, who is spending the Fall at Petosky, Mich., was operated on for appendicitis in that city last Sunday week. Her brothers here did not know the operation was going to be performed until after it was over, though they had been notified that she was threatened with the complaint. Miss Minnie's friends will be glad to know that she stood the operation, nicely and is rapidly improving, as every mail brings that information.

Mr. J. O. Russell will build a modern cottage on a lot opposite his residence. Mr. A. D. Cox is the contractor, and the work will commence at once. It is our information that Mr. Jo Russell and wife will occupy the cottage.

MARRIED IN CHICAGO ILL.

The intelligence of the marriage of Dr. Almon Jones to Miss Lena Williams, did not reach us in time for our last week's issue. They were married at Chicago, Ill., August 31, where Dr. Jones was taking a post-graduate course. This union was not a surprise to those who have been on the inside, as the couple had been going together for several years. The groom is a son of Dr. J. T. Jones, Montpelier, and is a physician who has been given quite superior advantages, a gentleman of high character. The bride is a most excellent young woman—no better in Adair county, possessing all the characteristics which go to make up true womanhood. At this writing it is not known where the couple will locate.

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT.

Whereas, The Supreme Grand Master of the universe has called from his labor here on earth, to eternal refreshments above, our beloved brother, G. Whit Flowers, in his 71st. year, therefore,

Resolved, That Gladysville Lodge, No. 251, F. and A. M. has lost a true and faithful member, his wife a faithful companion, his children a devoted father, the Church and community a Christian in the true sense.

Second, That this Lodge extend to the bereft family its heartfelt sympathy in this great hour of affliction.

Third, That these resolution be spread upon the record book of this Lodge and a copy sent to each of the county papers for publication, and a copy sent to the family of the deceased.

IMPOVING.

Mr. David Garvin, of this place, who fell from a scaffold at his residence of Mr. J. T. Mercer, Milltown, last week, dislocating his shoulder and receiving other bodily injuries, is improving, but it will be some days before he will be able to resume work. Immediately after the accident Mr. Garvin was conveyed to his home in Columbia where he received medical attention and where he could be under care of his family.

MR. JOHN ROYSE DEAD.

A paper from Sherman, Texas, gives an account of the death of Mr. John Royse, which occurred in that city August 17. The deceased was a native of Adair county, a brother of Mr. Solomon Royse and Mrs. Stephen Conover. The deceased was sixty-five years old, and very popular in Sherman, where he resided a number of years. The paper stated that his death was caused by a bite inflicted by some kind of insect. He leaves a wife.

Circuit Court brought a large crowd to Columbia last Monday, and business was lively with all the merchants from early in the morning until late in the afternoon. There were quite a number of stock dealers here, and quite a number of mules and horses changed hands.

Jockey street was crowded with horse swappers, and a number of men went home riding a different horse from the one they came in on. Speaking of horse jockeys, it is said that five or six men in this county make their living in that way, only.

One of the best sermons delivered in this town for many moons came from Rev. A. R. Kasey last Sunday night. It was at union services held at the Baptist church, a very large congregation being out. No speaker was ever accorded closer attention. His subject was the love of God for his earthly children, plainly showing that the way to the celestial city was plain, and if men and women did not enter therein it was their own fault.

The Louisville Conference will convene in Columbia next Wednesday.

Preachers from all over the State will be here, and during the week it will be in session our people will be given an opportunity, to hear some of the strong men of the Methodist Church.

Eld. W. K. Azbill will fill the pulpit at Christian Church next Sunday forenoon.

VICTIM OF CANCER.

Mr. Adolph Myers, who was a citizen of Columbia, having removed to this place from Hardin county, several years ago, died in St. Mary and Elizabeth hospital, Louisville, last Saturday at 11:45 o'clock a. m. He was sixty-two years old, and was afflicted with a cancer, having gone to Louisville for treatment. He was a quiet, good citizen, and at one time was Town Marshal of Columbia. He leaves a number of children, all of whom, as we understand, reside in Hardin county.

Young & Coffey sold their handsome farm year old stallion, "Highland Peacock," to W. L. Gray, of this county. The price paid was private, but we are informed that it was the highest price ever paid in this section of Kentucky for a saddle colt of his age.

This colt has been shown the past two seasons through Southern Kentucky and a part of Tennessee, where he won many blue ties, and the admiration of all horse lovers who saw him exhibited. He was sired by Jordan Peacock 1148, and bred by James Clayton, of Creelboro, Ky., who now owns him. She is a descendant of the great Artist family, being a Raven Artist, 1043; he by Artist 75. Mr. Gray is now at Cooksville, Tenn., where he will show his fine string of horses this week.

Mr. J. C. Strange, who is at work on Mr. Walker Bryant's residence met with a very serious accident last Wednesday. He was using his pocket knife, the blade slipping, and the index finger of his left hand was almost severed. It will be ten days or more before he can use the finger.

Mrs. W. F. Hancock will have her milinery goods on exhibition the first of next week. She has purchased a very attractive stock and respectfully invites all her friends to call at her store. Miss Carlisle is with her.

Henry and Porter Polson are condemned to hang at Albany, December 6, 1907. They murdered an old lady named Julia Brown. An appeal will be taken, but Judge Jarvis has passed sentence on the condemned men.

Mrs. James Garnett entertained a number of her Columbia lady friends and also several lady visitors last Wednesday evening. Refreshments were served and the evening very enjoyable spent.

Rev. E. W. Coakley preached at the Baptist church last Sunday forenoon. At the close of his discourse there were two additions to the church, Misses Mary and Corinne Shearer, daughters of Eld. Trabue Shearer.

It is our understanding that the S. W. Buchanan Institute Campbellsville, opened with flattering prospects. The first day about eighty pupils matriculated and that number was augmented during the week.

The Baptist Academy at Campbellsville opened with eighty-seven pupils, and up to last Friday the number had increased to ninety-seven. The outlook is very promising to the management.

Mr. James McGee of Somerset, son of Mrs. Delia McGee, was married last week to Miss Willie Kersey, of Monteagle, Tenn. The couple are now with the groom's mother, in Somerset.

Lost:—A pocket book containing some money and a lot of notes. The finder will leave at this office. The finder will be rewarded.

Geo. J. Hurt.

We very much regret that we were unable to publish all of Judge S. W. Hager's opening speech in this issue. The remainder, about six and a half columns, will appear next week.

It was but little trouble last week to find life insurance agents upon the square. Every time you turned around you faced one.

Recital at Lindsay-Wilson next Thursday evening Miss Shannon assisted by Miss Pendleton. Every body invited.

The Methodist church is completed. Union services will be held there next Sunday evening, the sermon to be preached by Rev. J. C. Cook.

FELLOWSHIP AND UNITY.

I do not believe there is another town in Kentucky which can boast of as much visible love and unity among the various ministers and their congregations as Columbia, when the size and population are taken into consideration.

A beautiful instance of this kindly spirit and the fellowship between two ministers and the propagation of the gospel was exhibited at the Christian Church Sunday morning.

The Rev. A. R. Kasey, pastor of the Methodist church, occupied the pulpit and at the close of his sermon in a few eloquent and well chosen words he tendered his sincere thanks to the Christian minister and his congregation for the use of their church during the past two months, while the Methodist church was being remodeled. In the absence of the pastor, Elder Z. T. Williams, Elder W. K. Azbill responded to Rev. Kasey's expression of thanks and gratitude, and said that in speaking of Eld. Williams, he was sure that it had been, both a pleasure and a profit as well as edifying to have had Rev. Kasey and his congregation in fellowship with him, as it was a token of unity and oneness of the Lord's people, and true Christian spirit.

Another invitation was extended by Eld. Azbill, to Rev. Kasey and his congregation to make the Christian church their home for services again, at any future time they may desire to. The first services in the newly remodeled Methodist church will be next Sunday evening.

CLEMENTSVILLE.

It has been raining on the just as well as the unjus.

The recent rains have made the corn crops in this county the best for many years.

Last week new sorghum was made by Hilary Wethington, the expert lasses manufacturer of this community.

At Bernard's Parochial school at this place opened its doors on Monday, September 2nd, with an attendance of 67 pupils. Since then the number has increased to 71 with prospects of many more. An assistant teacher will be employed within a few days. It speaks well for this school that at its very outset it has received generous patronage from the community.

Mr. Thomas King of Campbellsburg, is making concrete foundation and porch for Ward and Wethington's new store.

Miss Mattie Wethington and Mr. Fladget Clements, both of Clementsville, will be united in the holy bonds of matrimony by Rev. A. L. O. Shea at St. Bernard's church on Tuesday morning, September 17. Both are popular young people of this section and have the best wishes of a host of friends for a long and happy life.

Mr. Maxwell, a turner for the Royer Wheel plant of this city is visiting friends at Portland, Indiana. Uncle "Pins" and Martha Wethington of this section are in Campbellsville on business this week.

Mr. Gail Brown, of the Brush Creek section paid us a pleasant visit this week.

Mr. Eugene Wethington has purchased a new buggy, and will doubtless spend his declining years in ease and happiness.

There will soon be an effort made to organize a society in this city to be known as the "Sons of Rest" or "Non-Sweat." It will be composed only of men opposed to manual labor. Any member found assisting his wife or mother in toting wood, water or any other chores will be considered an unfriendly act to the society.

OPENING GUN OF THE CAMPAIGN

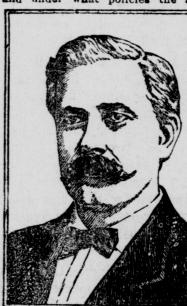

Fired by Judge S. W. Hager
the Gubernatorial Nominee,
In Presence of Democratic Hosts at Lexington.

Party Platform Outlined, and Record of Deeds of the Party's Officials Reviewed.

Not a Dodger on Any Issue of the Campaign.

Lexington, Ky., Aug. 31.—Before a vast concourse of Kentucky Democrats, assembled here today, Judge S. W. Hager of Boyd county, nominee of the party for governor of the commonwealth, made his initial speech of his campaign. Outlining a party platform, for the planks of which he stood when seeking the nomination, and which was adopted by the voters of the party who then nominated him; pointing out the many good features of Democratic administration in the past seven and one-half years, and insuring the people of the state that Kentucky will not be behind in progressiveness in the next four years if Democracy is continued in power. Judge Hager's address made a splendid impression. He spoke as follows:

Mr. Chairman, Ladies and Gentlemen: The time has come when the voters of this commonwealth are to choose a governor and other state officers who for the ensuing four years are to perform the duties and exercise the powers pertaining to the executive branch of the state government. It is for them to say not only what shall be done by the governing authorities, but also by what principles, in what manner, and under what policies the affairs of the state shall be administered. Indeed, it is the province of the voters, in their sovereign wisdom, to define and prescribe in a great measure, if not wholly, the very lines along which state affairs shall be conducted; for, as has been said, it is they who finally determine all matters of government at all times. It is true, however, that the highest importance that each individual voter, whatever may have been or may now be his party affiliation, should consider thoughtfully and carefully the claims made by the two political parties for his support. For if error creeps in, if mistakes are made and evil ensues, the blow falls heaviest upon the individual, whose property is taxed to support and maintain the state government and its institutions, and whose safety and happiness depend upon the policies and principles behind the governing power and the fidelity with which they are enforced. The ultimate responsibility, then, for good or evil in state affairs resting in the voter, it is but fair and just to him in order that he may act with intelligence, that the candidates seeking his suffrage should give a full and complete expression of the views they represent upon the various questions and issues which most nearly affect the welfare and happiness of the interests of the state at large. It is of the utmost importance to him that he should know these views, and, knowing them and thoughtfully considering them, it should be his duty to act upon them conscientiously as his judgment may dictate.

Mr. Bryan says "platforms should be made by the voters"; that "platforms should be the expression of the wishes of the voters"; that "the party is not the arbitrary production of a few leaders." There are two ways in which such a consummation may be reached. The first is by the election of delegates to a nominating convention who, in their cause for election, present for the consideration of the voters a statement of principles and policies for which they stand, and for which they will contend as members of the convention. Delegates elected under such conditions may truly speak for the voters and in such way the voters may make the platform. But even then there is still opportunity for manipulation by the "few leaders" of the arbitrary party leaders. The second and surer way is through the medium of a primary election, in which the party nominees are chosen directly by the voters themselves, that candidate for nomination being chosen whose declaration of policies and principles and whose attitude toward public affairs prove satisfactory to the voters. In this way the platform is "made by the voters" beyond all question.

Nominated as I was in a primary election, after a canvass in which the principles and policies to which I held were enunciated and discussed from one end of the state to the other, I come before you, my fellow citizens, the commissioned candidate of the Democratic party for the office of governor, with a platform made in just such way as Mr. Bryan truly said it should be made. Some of the more important declarations presented for the endorsement of the Democratic voters, briefly state, were the following:

Democratic Platform — Its Eleven Planks.

1. Insistence upon faithfulness and economy in the management of public affairs; demanding that public office shall be recognized as a public trust.
2. For the impartial and energetic enforcement of all laws.
3. That there shall be no expenditure of public money except in obedience to law, and that strict economy shall be observed in public expenditures.
4. In favor of fostering and developing the educational interests of the state.
5. Insistence upon just and reasonable rates and impartial service from the railroads within principles fair alike to the railroads and the public.

6. Requiring that all corporations shall bear their just and due proportion of the burden of taxation—no less and no more; that they shall come up to the full requirements of the revenue laws—all interests being placed on an equal footing in the matter of taxation.
7. Welcoming every reform in administrative methods that will reduce the cost of government to the people.
8. Favoring improvement in every respect possible in the conduct of the state's public institutions, especially with regard to asylums for the insane.

9. Advocating the promotion of the material development of the state, and of conditions that invite the investment of capital within our borders.
10. Expressing opposition to all economic policies that make for the upholding of trusts or other combinations that operate to oppress both consumer and producer of the products of this country.
11. Calling for faithful adherence to the constitution, and to the Jeffersonian doctrine of justice and equal rights to all.

Party Voters Made Platform in Primary.

Such declaration of principles and policies was presented to the Democrats in my speeches throughout the state, and in awarding me the nomination, they gave it approval and adopted it by their direct vote. I do not, however, go before you with a new party platform, formulated by a few leaders and languidly adopted, without debate, by a merely attended convention, but with one that has been made and approved by their own, by the direct, untrammeled votes of thousands of my fellow-Democrats for whose consideration it was presented. And now, appearing before the people as a whole, as the representative of my party, I wish to such extent to condense my speech and my commission from my party warrant, to emphasize and amplify the platform upon which the Democratic party has placed its seal of approval. I feel justified in expecting the support of every Democratic voter, and I trust that many others of my fellow citizens, approving the principles and policies for which the Democratic representatives stand, will see that their duty, to themselves and to the state, also lies in the support of the Democratic ticket in this campaign.

Voters to Choose Between Parties.

Against the personal character and attainments of the gentleman who has the distinction of representing the Republican party as its candidate for governor, I have not one word to say. This is not a contest between persons. This is not a contest in which the personality of one candidate is to be weighed against the other. It is, in fine, not a contest to determine simple as to whether Mr. Wilson, as an individual, or I as an individual, shall occupy that exalted position. It is rather a contest which is to decide whether in this commonwealth the principles and policies of the Democratic party or those of the Republican party shall prevail. It is a contest in which you as voters are to decide your preferences. It is for you to say whether the state of Kentucky shall continue its progress under the wise, the businesslike, the economical, the safe and conservative policies which for nearly eight years have characterized the Democratic administration; or whether we shall again be subjected to the follies and extravagances of the failure attending a Republican administration of public affairs. Would you rather see our beloved state, in peace and quiet moving on in the line of progress to take her place in the vanguard of states; her fertile fields full of the harvest; her cities aglow with the blaze of industry; commercial and industrial prosperity on every hand; her affairs quietly, able and economically managed? Or would you prefer to have her taxes at the lowest rate consonant with a wise and judicious administration of affairs which follows Democratic policies; or would you rather see her peace disturbed, her quiet broken; her progress checked, her tax rate higher; her institutions mismanaged; incompetence and extravagance in state affairs, all of which marked the only Republican administration Kentucky has ever had, and which we might reasonably expect would characterize any Republican administration.

Now, I am here to tell you that just at the capital as it is today, was disturbed by the battle of arms of the soldiery. The machinery of government running smoothly and without friction; each department of the state without challenge performing its functions; or would you rather again witness the scene of a governor calling out the state militia to prevent the election of a United States senator, and the unspeakable horror of riot and disorder that existed when the great senatorial election of Governor Goebel was actually wounded almost at the steps of the capitol, while the usurper Taylor surrounded himself with troops of soldiers and denied to the civil authorities the right to search for the assassin who fired the fatal shot from a window of the office of the Republican secretary of state, and not more than forty feet from where Taylor himself witnessed the tragedy?

It is for you to say which of these pictures is the brightest and fullest of good fortune. In the course of this state should ever again witness such scenes as were enacted when the then usurper and now fugitive Taylor filled the state capitol with hordes of outlaws to intimidate the legislature and precipitate a reign of riot and disorder.

State, Not National, Governments the Issue.

I confess a natural ambition to be the governor of this, the proudest of all the commonwealths; but that ambition is subservient to the interests of my people, and it is not upon any personal claim, but rather for the Democratic policies and principles I recommend. Will you support in this canvass?

The canvass in which we are engaged is a contest between the Republican and Democratic parties upon the policies of each as affecting the state, and is a contest in which national issues have no part except that upon the result of the ensuing election depends whether or not Kentucky may be counted with certainty to cast its electoral vote for the Democratic candidate for president in November.

The Republicans always have been the party of centralization. It is the party of high protection, under whose vicious principles great trusts have been formed and thrived. It is the party that for campaign purposes has extorted from the great corporations fabulous contributions, under promise of favorable legislation, such funds so contributed to be used for corrupting and debauching the American ballot.

It is the same party that, by its influence, political protection, taxes to the American consumer the articles of daily use, thus favoring capital and discriminating against labor. It is the same party that in Kentucky sought by violence and bloodshed to override the will of the people, and with the iron heel of the usurper trampled in the dust the constitution and the laws of the state. It is the same party that in convention assembled in 1896, when John W. Davis was nominated for governor, indorsed "without reserve" the "resolute and patriotic" course of W. S. Taylor, which resolute and patriotic course was a conspiracy, consummated in the assassination of Governor Goebel.

When a fearless and honest delegate boldly denounced that assassination upon the floor of the convention that nominated me, Mr. W. S. Wilson, and vigorously declared that "the son of a gun" killed Goebel, even though they thought they were working in the right interest of the Republican party, ought to be hanged. Every one of them should die for this crime, and if the party wants success it must not shirk this issue, but must see that every man connected with this foul murder pays the full penalty of the law; he received not the slightest evidence of sympathy, but on the con-

Health in the Canal Zone.

The high wages paid make it a mighty temptation to our young artisans to join the force of skillful workmen needed to construct the Panama Canal. Many are restrained however by the fear of fevers and malaria. Lost and Found.

Lost, between 9:30 p. m., yesterday and noon today, a bilious attack, with nausea and sick headache. This loss was occasioned by finding at T. E. Paul's drug store a box of Dr. King's New Life Pills. Guaranteed for biliousness, malaria and jaundice. 25c.

The Touch That Heals.

It is the touch of Bucklin's Arnica Salve. It's the happiest combination of Arnica flowers and healing balsams ever compounded. No matter how old the sore or ulcer is, this Salve will cure it. For burns scalds, cuts, wounds or piles, it has no equal. Guaranteed by T. E. Paul, Druggist. 25c.

trary a stubborn SPURIOUS-KNEE SCIENCE spread over that body of Republican delegates and an ominous frown of disapproval of that sentiment, marked with emphasis the features of all.

Kentucky Democrats Faithful to Promises.

The Democratic party is and has always been the party of the people. It is in favor of equal and exact justice to all and against any class or special legislation, by which one person profits and another suffers disadvantage. It believed that every man, whatever and however lowly may be his station in life, shall have an equal chance under the law and that he shall not be discriminated against. It is opposed to the policy of a protective tariff under the injurious operations of which great trusts are formed and fostered and restrained competition, which the life of free America's industries is crushed out.

In Kentucky ours is not a party of promises only, but a party of performances as well. It has never made a pledge to the people of the state that it has not faithfully and scrupulously kept. Along its course are no haunting spirits of unfaithfulness. The McClellan railroad bill, promised by the Democratic party to the people, which was passed by the legislature of 1893 but vetoed by Governor Bradley, has become a law, under the just operations of which freight rates in the commonwealth have been lowered and equalized to the great benefit of the shipper.

The common school book bill, the enactment of which was pledged by the Democratic party to the people, has been placed upon the statute books, and under its provisions and operations the price of the school books used in our common schools has been materially reduced, to the advantage of the children of the state. In these, as in all pledges made, the Democratic party has kept faith with the people and has not been content with mere vaporings or high-sounding declarations.

Without any pledge the Democratic party has given the people of Kentucky such temperance legislation as the sentiment of the times demanded. As between these two parties and the policies and principles represented by each, you are to choose. You are the final arbiters, and to your judgment and choice the Democratic party pledges itself to bow in humble submission.

I live in the state of Kentucky. Its very name is music to my ear. It is the synonym of bravery and of chivalry. In whatever land or clime a Kentuckian may roam, his energies are renewed, his strength increased and his drooping spirits raised, when he hears floating up over the air the strains of that sweetest of all songs, "My Old Kentucky Home."

For State Development, Industrial, Moral and Educational.

I am deeply interested in the development of our state in every sense that the word implies—industrial, moral and educational. It is my desire to see floating upon the sea of commerce the yet untold and undeveloped resources of our great commonwealth.

In the mountains to the east, and in the lower lands to the west, are vast deposits of coal and other minerals, and even in the central counties are great veins and beds of coal.

These I wish to develop and brought into market, so that the world may learn of our wealth and we may keep abreast of other states in the march of progress. I endorse, without reserve, every organization and every agency that has for its purpose the agricultural, industrial, mineral and commercial advancement of the state. As the running stream carries its sparkling crystals into the greater body of water into which it flows, so would I have the stream of development carry into the markets of the world the wonderful resources of our state. To the end that this development may be the more fully assured, I am in favor of wise and liberal laws affecting commerce.

I am in favor of such laws, as will insure the investment of capital in the state and protect such investment, rather than of laws that would frighten capital away or hedge it about with too many and unjust restrictions.

I am in favor of all laws, as well as all agencies tending to encourage the formation and establishing of new industries and placing them in operation. Every new industry established, every new commercial enterprise that is launched, every mine that is opened, every manufacturing establishment that is put in operation is of great benefit to the state, and though it may of itself mean but little, it is a part of the great plan of development which we all have in mind and which, under proper laws, will in the natural order of things inevitably come.

I elected governor it shall be my constant purpose to advocate and urge the passage of such laws as will hasten and insure this development and thus provide at home a field of labor and enterprise for our young men, who constitute the state's greatest asset.

Kentucky's Future Depends Upon Education.

Hand in hand with the development of our state go the education of sons and daughters. In this advanced age, when competition is so sharp and wit meets wit in the keen encounter, education plays a most important part in the contest and lends most powerful aid in the battle that is waged. There is no subject in which I am more deeply interested than that of the education of our young; for as the elders fall into the "scar and yellow leaf" and pass away, their places must be filled by those who are boys and girls today, but who will be the men and women of tomorrow. To the state this is a question of vital importance, and it should be most seriously considered.

I am earnestly in favor of the improvement of our common school system and of increasing the educational facilities, so that a good common school education may be within the reach of even the poorest of the children of this commonwealth. It is with pleasure I review the action of the general assembly in establishing and providing for two additional normal schools for the state, which action was a distinct advance toward higher education and for the better equipment of our teachers. We need more and better common schools and the improvement of our whole common school system.

To insure the betterment of our common schools, it is important and essential that in every way better pay be provided for the teachers of our schools, thus making the profession more attractive and insuring a higher standard. The profession of teaching should be more fully recognized and its dignity and responsibility more fully appreciated.

With the qualification that is essential to become a professor of teaching should appeal to us as one full of dignity and honor. There is no more heroic or important figure than that of the country school teacher, who, in the little old school house on the hill, trains up the young in the rudiments of education and starts them on their destiny of independent thought. No less consecrated and important are the teachers of our single-set schools. There is no one single-set of men and women united in a single purpose, who can or do render to the state better or greater service than that of these self-sacrificing teachers of our common schools.

Further Extension of School Term Urged.

The term of the common school should be lengthened, so that the pupil may have a better and fairer opportunity to become thoroughly grounded in each study. We should raise the standard of our common schools to a high level, and then the needs of this advanced age, so that when the youth of our state shall have completed the course prescribed and goes forth with buoyant yet quickly pulsating heart to engage in the great battle of life, he may feel that he is equipped to meet every issue and to win in the struggle in which he is to engage. It is not every boy who can have the advantage of a collegiate training and to these the state owes the duty of providing the best public school facilities possible.

The future of the state depends upon the boys, and greatly upon the boys who can gain no further education than that afforded by our common schools.

The history of our country shows it is not those greatly favored in a worldly way and who have had the advantages of college education that have attained the highest measure of success. Some, if not most, of our great statesmen and generals have come from the ranks of the obscure. Andrew Jackson, born in a log hut in the piney woods of North Carolina, with but little education and no means, passed from abject poverty into the exalted station of president of the United States. Daniel Webster left the plow on his father's farm in New Hampshire and thundered his way into the United States senate. Our own beloved Clay, "The mill boy of the slates," left his humble home in the valleys of Virginia to become in the national congress a figure and a power as great as his age. Ulysses S. Grant, a boy from the backwoods of Illinois, led the embattled hosts of the North to victory over the brave and gallant sons of the South, and made for himself a record that twice elevated him to the chief magistracy of our nation. Down in LaFayette county, in a log hut on a little farm, was born a type of that rugged and lofty American manhood, Abraham Lincoln, who by the sheer force of will and his native intelligence forged his way into the white house and occupied in history a place, and in the Hall of Fame a niche attained by few of America's great men. Thus we cannot say to what heights they may attain who are born in obscurity and poverty.

Make State College Great University.

Touching the question of higher education in the state, it is my opinion that the state should be made a university equal to the best in the land; a university with a standard so high, with such variety and flexibility of courses, and with such equipment and apparatus for demonstration, that graduates of other first-class institutions may not feel the necessity of leaving the state to pursue post-graduate courses.

I hope to see this great school the pride of every teacher in the state; ay, of every other educational institution in the state. The opportunity to build up a great university for the South is better here in Kentucky than in any other state south of Mason and Dixon's line. If elected governor I shall favor all well considered and feasible plans to make this college such a university as I have described.

Child Who Labors Not Overlooked.

In connection with the subject of education I am led to give brief attention to the agitation for laws protecting the employment of children below certain ages in mines and factories and commonly designated "Child Labor Laws." The children of the state, and especially those among the poorer class, need such legislation far more than the wage they would earn, for it is essential, in order that they may be prepared to meet the responsibilities of citizenship, that they have some training that fits them to understand the principles and policy of government, and it is also due the state of which they are to become citizens and voters, that as far as possible they should be so trained. It is upon the principle and reason, therefore, that the youth of our state should enjoy every possible chance for education, that such laws should be enacted and made effective.

There is no more pitiable sight than that of young and tender boys and girls wearing away their lives in the smoky factory or dismal mine, evincing in their countenances the unsavory effect of the confinement and strain incident to the work. But it is not alone or perhaps chiefly upon this ground, or for the reason that the physical growth and development of the boy and girl may be stunted and retarded, or that adults may be subjected to unfair competition by the employment of "child labor" in mines and factories, that such laws are desired. The chief reason for the support of such laws is to be found in their aim to protect the children of the state, who are deprived of an opportunity to secure an education. They should and must be protected in their right to at least a common school education—an education which every child should have, and which, as has been shown by the cases of so many of our most successful men, will serve the purpose of qualifying the youth to meet the responsibilities of life.

To Strengthen Health and Similar Laws.

It is a matter of supreme importance that the health and lives of our citizens should be properly safeguarded by the enactment of sufficient and effective laws looking to the requirement of purity and high quality in the food and drink prepared for their consumption.

The laws now upon our statute books relating to this subject should be strengthened to such extent as may render them more useful, and such additional laws touching this matter as may, in the light of experience, become useful, should speedily be enacted.

No Laws Unjust to Capital and Labor.

The question of capital and labor has been one fraught with much agitation covering a period of many years. It is a question, the solution of the difficulties of which, is as important to the one as to the other. With a proper understanding of the mutuality of their interests and with a proper regard for the rights of each on the part of the other there should be no differences between them. One is equally important with the other; without labor, capital is an inert entity; without capital the laborer cannot sell his hire and barter his services for wages. Neither can do without the other and no law that has a tendency to strengthen the one at the expense of the other; no law that discriminates against the one or the other can be just or good. By the very nature of their relation to each other capital and labor are properly not antagonistic. They are naturally united the one to the other by a bond of co-operation which is to the interest of each to maintain, as neither can be effective without the other. An equal and exact balance between them should be preserved, and this balance, and the mutually cordial relations existing, should not be permitted by either side to be disturbed by any artificial condition that may arise.

The organization of the great army of wage earners in this country is essential for their self-preservation and mutual advancement, and is as natural and legitimate as the organization of capital.

The Democratic party has always been the friend of labor in this country and has favored and encouraged its organization.

I am in favor of every proper law to protect labor from the encroachment of capital upon its rights, and every proper law that will preserve to cap-

For Clerk Court of Appeals,
JOHN B. CHENAULT.

It is known that A. E. Wilson, the Republican candidate for Governor, was bitter against Dr. W. G. Hunter for United States Senator, and it is also known that Dr. Hunter is keeping his mouth closed in this campaign. We reprint from the Somerset Journal the following: "The Eleventh district is to become a royal battle ground during the campaign. There exists no dissatisfaction among Democrats, but among the Republicans there are many wrinkles to be smoothed out if they hope to carry the district by as large a majority as formerly. The fight against Naper Adams, nominee for Clerk of the Court of Appeals on the Republican ticket is bitter and earnest, not only in Pulaski county, but in many other portions of the district. The lukewarmness of Dr. W. Godfrey Hunter, former Congressman and former American Minister to Guatemala, is formidable. Mr. Wilson was a bitter antagonist to Dr. Hunter when the latter was the Republican nominee for United States Senator in 1895. It is claimed that Dr. Hunter and his friends have never forgotten the antagonism of Wilson, and they are lukewarm in their support of the Republican State ticket. Dr. Hunter is now the owner of all the public utilities in Somerset, and has also big land interests in Eastern Kentucky. He says that he is not taking any active part in politics, and while he may not be actively at work against Wilson, he is certainly doing nothing for him, and it is generally conceded that for a man of Dr. Hunter's influence to remain inactive will cost the Republican party many votes."

It is a little amusing to read in the Louisville Herald of the great crowds who are attending A. E. Wilson's speaking. At Harlan Court-House there were only five thousand. This statement covers almost every man, woman and child who live in Harlan county.

The campaign is warming up, and from now until the election is over the political news will be in evidence. As usual, the adherents of both parties will see favorable indications, while the enthusiastic element will see an unprecedented victory. The Democrats will figure on an unusual majority, and the Republicans will count up their game and land their ticket, no doubt, but all this will happen on estimates, hopes and ifs, while the voters of the State will set at naught the theories that now prevail. The old adage, "Nothing great is lightly won," is a good one, and from the evidence now confronting us, we feel certain that the victor in the coming election will be proud of the effort as well as the result. So far as the News is able to discern, political conditions are normal, and no great deviation in the returns from the voters need be expected. The ousting of the Louisville officials by the Appellate Court, is one of the straws that give hope and encouragement to the Republicans. The Democratic crusade on the liquor element of Louisville, and throughout the State, is another condition that inspires the leaders of that party. Combining the two, and linking in the old campaign cry of political persecution, they have actually figured to win, and many of the rank and file really believe it. On the other side, the overthrow of the Louisville election, the appointments made by Governor Beckham enabling him to carry out the demands of the temperance people, impresses the belief that the loss of the liquor vote will be more than repaid by the gain in those who favor better living both in private and public life.

At any rate, there is not likely to be a sweeping loss nor an astounding gain to either party. Outside of Louisville, political life is normal, and the State Democratic. The State never was so prosperous, and never was doing so much for the advancement of the people, morally, intellectually and financially. There is not a single reason to demand a change of parties, and not one to support the contention that one will be made. Republicans are active, but they will not find sleeping sentinels on the Democratic watch towers. If the people vote out, the result is not uncertain.

The Courier-Journal building was visited by another fire last Thursday and the upper stories of the building were flooded with water the damage being up in the thousands. It is now believed by many that the two fires was the work of an incendiary. The editors and reporters and printers of both the Courier-Journal and Times, the Times being in the same building, did not leave their posts, and while the fire was raging and the excitement was at the highest pitch, the Courier-Journal was printed and distributed as usual. You can brand the Old Lady with fire, but every morning she is on the street looking as fresh as a 16-year old and as happy as a lark. We are real sorry these fires occurred, but we are glad the devil cannot stop two of the best papers in the United States.

A Shifty lot of fellows, according to the Heard and Post, voted in the Bailey precinct, in Franklin County, in 1903. It seems that they have no politics and vote where it suits them. The Heard's report of these men was the first time the said voters had been heard from since the Colson and John D. White primary in which White beat Colson but the counting of these fellows for Colson in Bell county was kept up until it was announced that White was defeated and Colson was given the certificate of nomination.

Tremendous crowds greeted Gov. Beckham and Hon. Ruby Laffoon at Burkesville, Albany, Jamestown, Monticello and Somerset. Democrats of the Eleventh district have been stirred as never before, and they are now in the fight and will keep busy until the election. From a number of sources we are informed that the Republican majority in the Eleventh will be greatly reduced.

Every school teacher in Kentucky who expects to continue following the profession should vote the Democratic ticket. The Democratic party believes in educating the boys and girls and also believes their instructors should be paid liberally for their services.

Mr. G. T. Jarvis, of Romine, Taylor county, was nominated by the Republicans in a convention held at Lebanon, to represent the counties of Marion, Taylor and Washington in the State Senate. Mr. Jarvis is a native of Knox County.

The Democratic party is the party of the people and is for the people. It is opposed to high taxes, trusts and combines. The Republican party believes in taxing the poor to keep up the rich. Take your choice.

Some Democratic papers in the State predict that Hager's majority for Governor will be the largest any candidate has received for that position for many years.

The broadest and most useful sphere in which a local paper can serve its community is that which arouses a desire for better public conditions.

Senator J. B. McCreary will make a number of speeches for the Democratic ticket. He will also tour the State with Hon. W. J. Bryan.

Judge Judson S. Harmon, of Ohio, and Senator Carmack, of Tennessee, will come to Kentucky. They are two big men of the nation.

The widow of Gen. Joseph H. Lewis died in Washington, D. C., Wendsday of last week. Her remains were interred at Frankfort.

Judge Yeost and Hon. W. J. Stone are back in line, making speeches for the Democratic ticket.

The Wayne County Baptist Association endorsed the candidacy of Judge S. W. Hager.

Gov. Beckham spoke at Glasgow Monday and at Edmonton yesterday.

ital its natural rights. As governor I would be careful to see that no laws unjust to either capital or labor should become effective.

Democratic Party for Honest Elections.

We demand a fair and honest election, not only in the state, but also in the counties and in the cities and towns of this commonwealth. Election manipulators should be weeded out. It is the sacred right of every legal voter of the state to cast his vote and it is also his right to have his vote counted as it is cast. In this commonwealth there is no place for those who juggle returns; but we demand a fair and honest count of all the legal votes cast. Honesty and fair dealing in politics are as essential to good government, as honesty in the administration of all governmental affairs.

Institutions Will Receive Most Serious Thought.

One of the cardinal principles of the Democratic party is the exercise of economy in the administration of public affairs. By this is not meant, however, that our charitable, penal and other institutions shall suffer by the practice of the false principle of saving at the expense of the public expenditure. In the expenditure of public funds, such economy should be practiced as is consistent with the proper and effective administration of the state's business, having at all times regard for our dignity and importance as a state and the legitimate proper and economic needs of our several institutions.

The last Democratic legislature of this state enacted a law placing the asylums of this state, under the management of a board of control. This law has been in operation a little over eighteen months. It has already been demonstrated that the law is a wise one. Prior to the enactment of this law, these institutions were managed by local bodies, men serving without remuneration, and who were not in close touch with the active management of the asylums over which they were placed. Under the present law, this state of affairs has been changed. The commissioners are in constant touch with the institutions, the condition of the unfortunate wards of the state is infinitely better in every particular, and the asylums being run with less expense to the state.

The state owes these unfortunate, untried care and attention, and every effort should be made to ameliorate their condition, and, if possible, to restore them mentally.

During the last seven years there has been expended, through legislative appropriation, $330,000 to enlarge, improve, and modernize these institutions. Ice plants, cold storage, electric lights, pianos, improved water-supplies, laundry plants and many other modern conveniences have been installed for the comfort of the unfortunate inmates.

In addition to the great advantage accruing to the patients by reason of the many reforms already inaugurated the board has already demonstrated that through this Democratic measure many thousands of dollars can be saved annually. The County Court Law, two thousand dollars has since been added to the commonwealth, and it is my deliberate judgment that the board of control will save enough to make such improvements as will be needed in the future without calling upon the legislature for further assistance.

In the cost of conveying patients to the asylums from April 1, 1906, when the board took charge of these institutions, to July 1, 1907, $13,250 was saved to the state and counties, or more than enough to pay the cost of maintaining the board.

If elected governor the charitable institutions shall at all times have my most serious thought and careful consideration. I shall be found urging and insisting always that the welfare of every available and possible reform that may result in placing these institutions upon a higher plane.

The unfortunate inmates of these asylums should receive not only the tenderest care, but be attended by those trained to the ministrations of their needs and to an understanding of their malady.

Mr. Wilson a Dodger on Temperance.

Passing to a subject that is forcing itself upon the attention of everybody and like Banquo's ghost will not down, I want to say that there is a wide-spread and growing sentiment in this country that the liquor traffic, though long indulged, should be speedily and effectually corrected, and the sale of liquor properly and efficiently regulated. I noticed an open letter addressed to my opponent, Mr. Wilson, the day before he opened his campaign, by The Mason Independent, a temperance paper of Maysville, which is as follows: "Please do not attempt to dismiss the important part of your platform (the ninth plank) with a few meaningless or colorless sentences. The temperance people of Mason county—your home county—are not a few individuals. Not a few of them in your own party. But these temperance people are not intending to vote for any man, of any party, who is not sound on the great question now stirring the state as never before in its history. Speak plainly on the temperance question. Your party has been publicly charged with masking this campaign with a glass of whisky in one hand and a glass of water in the other, and that the temperance plank in your platform is to catch the temperance suckers. You may not be too plain on this point, and make such reply to your accusers as will strengthen your friends and win those who are not fully persuaded." I was particularly struck with the clear and lucid speech of Mr. Wilson when I first listened to his reply. "He (the editor) wants me to know that he expects that will answer his questions, printed in black and white in the Independent, without any evasion or flippancy, if I expect to have the votes of Mason county. Brother Purdon makes me think of a boy who lived next door to me, who broke a bottle in the path where I passed barefoot, and it looks to me as if he did this purposely for me to get a good scolding. He is barefoot when I came back on this pilgrimage to the home of my tender years." Brother Purdon was not caught with that answer and says in his paper that as a temperance advocate he cannot support Mr. Wilson, who has repudiated his own platform and declared in favor of the precent as a unit.

Democratic Candidate Makes Position Clear.

I have never been fanatical or unreasonable, but have had my independent views without disparaging any other whose views upon any question might differ from my own. My sympathies have always been with the cause of temperance, and I have always been in favor of such reasonable and feasible legislation as might be demanded by the sentiment of my state. I am in hearty accord and sympathy with the best and most feasible temperance thought and heartily endorse any rational movement or law that tends to the moral upbuilding and uplifting of the state.

I indorse without reserve the action of the last Democratic general assembly in passing the "County Court Law," which I believe to be in full accordance with the principles of my party, and to be thoroughly Democratic it should be extended so as to apply to all counties. I am in favor of all reasonable, proper and feasible legislation on the temperance question and any and all such laws would have my earnest and honest support and approval.

"Remember the Sabbath Day."

If we would have our proud commonwealth occupy the enviable position before the world that she should occupy, her laws must be enforced without fear or favor, without leniency or partiality, while the criminal and penal laws of the state should be rigidly enforced, those relating to the proper observance of the Sabbath should be as strictly enforced. When the Lord thundered from Sinai the command, "Remember the Sabbath day to keep it holy." He was not speaking alone to the generation then living, but his command was to live through all ages and guide throughout all time. Those who have been committed or by whomsoever commanded, I have no sympathy. No assassin or aider and abettor of an assassin need expect immunity from me no matter what may be his station in life, whether high or low, rich or poor, politically great and powerful or the most obscure citizen in the land, if convicted on such a charge by twelve "good men and true," he must expire his crime to the full measure of the jury's verdict.

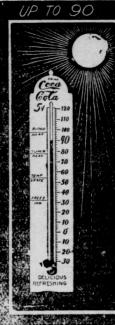

The people of Kentucky would like to know what Mr. Wilson would do with an application for the pardon of a convicted assassin or the aider and abettor of an assassin, if he should become governor.

It is to be presumed that the intelligent and patriotic citizens of the state are interested in good government and will use their influence in an effort to secure it. The Republican party has had an opportunity to show to the people of Kentucky the character of an administration that might reasonably be expected of it should it again be entrusted with power. In order that the voters may decide fairly and vote intelligently let us review a little history that is so recent that you will remember. You will recall that in 1896 the Republicans said "turn the results out and give us a look at the books and we will disclose such mismanagement of the state's affairs as will appall the most incredulous." The people voted to give them a look. For four years they looked, and the people waited long for that report which was to make bare the shortcomings of the Democratic party about which they had been carping for years, but like the "letter that was looked for" the report never came.

What Look at Books Showed.

Now let us see what the Republicans found when they got a look at the books. They found that the state's affairs had been honestly and economically conducted and every dollar paid into the treasury had been strictly accounted for.

Sour Stomach

No appetite, loss of strength, nervousness, headache, constipation, bad breath, general debility, sour risings, and catarrh of the stomach are all due to indigestion. KODOL is the great remedy. It powerfully represents the natural juices of digestion as they exist in a healthy stomach, combined with the greatest known tonic and reconstructive properties. Kodol is a safe, reliable, easily digested medicine and dyspepsia, but this famous remedy helps all stomach troubles by cleansing, purifying, sweetening and strengthening the mucous membranes lining the stomach.

Dr. S. J. Sawyer, Louisville, Ky., was troubled with sour stomach for twenty years. Kodol cured him and we are now using it in milk for babies.

THE OLD STAGECOACH.

Those who are accustomed to look back with longing eyes to the "good old days" will find it interesting to learn that in the middle of the eighteenth century the common carrier between Selkirk the Edinburgh, distance of thirty-eight miles, required two weeks to make the journey.

In 1778 it took a day and a half for a stagecoach to go from Edinburgh to Glasgow, only forty-four miles away. About the same time the swiftest stages seldom covered the road between Edinburgh and London, 810 miles, in less than two weeks, an average speed of about twenty-two miles a day.—St. Louis Republic.

There are a great many people who have slight attacks of indigestion and dyspepsia nearly all the time. Their food may satisfy the appetite but it fails to nourish the body simply because the stomach is not in fit condition to do the work it is supposed to do. It can't digest the food you eat. The stomach should be given help. You ought take something that will do the work your stomach can't do. Kodol cure can't be beat. It is a combination of natural digestants and vegetable acids, digests the food itself and gives strength and health to the stomach. Pleasant to take. Sold by Page & Dohoney.

Logan McDaniel, aged 36, was given ten years in the penitentiary for killing his father, a few weeks ago at Maceo. McDaniel was drunk when he committed the deed. It was brought out that the father had often taught the boy to drink liquor and had often been intoxicated with him.

THE PHILIPINES AT HOME

A glimpse of the Philippines at home—a typical Igorrote Village, 25 primitive wild people living just as they are found today in the almost impassable mountains of Northern Luzon—is the rare treat which is promised the visitors to our state fair this fall.

The results of the United States' war with Spain is now a matter of history known to every schoolboy, yet few people can realize that there are 2,000 islands in the group inhabited by many strange people speaking many different languages and having a diversity of customs.

The Igorrote Village will exhibit with some detail the actual life of one of the primitive peoples found among the mountains 300 miles North of Manila.

The natives will be found living in their staw-thatched huts, manufacturing their spears, head-axes, and pottery, weaving cloth and making pipes. Sham battles, spear throwing, making fire by friction, and many other features of their tribal life will amuse and entertain both old and young.

The Igorrote is an eater of dogs,
a hunter of human heads, and a pagan in religion, yet he is very likable in character and is noted for his honesty, industry and good humor.

The little brown people should not be selected by those who wish to see man in his primitive simplicity.

A HUMANE APPEAL

A humane citizen of Richmond, Ind.,
Mr. U. D. Williams, 107 West Main St., says: "I appeal to all persons with weak lungs to take Dr. King's New Discovery, the only remedy that has helped me, and fully comes up to the proprietor's recommendation." It saves more lives than all other throat and lung remedies put together. Used as a cough and cold cure the world over. Cures asthma, bronchitis, croup, whooping cough, quinsy, hoarseness, and phthisis, stops hemorrhages of the lungs, and builds them up. Guaranteed at T. E. Paull's drug store. 50c and $1 trial bottle free.

THE BLAME IS KENTUCKY'S.

There are resolutions to show
for it that the Dark Tobacco Growers' Association has no sympathy with the acts of the night raiders. Editorial and eloquent speeches in denunciation of their course have been supplied in abundance. The number of public meetings held for the washing of hands of all such diabolical occurrences has not been few.

It is evident therefore, that so far as Western Kentucky is concerned, the force of public sentiment is inimical to these gentlemen who appear as willing to assassinate women and children as their fathers and brothers who chance to differ with them as to the need or meaning of protection for the oppressed tobacco grower.

So far as records go, there is no overwhelming sentiment in the mountains, the Bluegrass, Frankford or Louisville in favor of the continuance of the night raiders' playful methods. Apparently, Kentucky is a unit in its opposition, but, as far as results go, Kentucky might as well be a party to the crimes, which for months, have gone unpunished, to the vast discredit of the state,
—Lou, Times.

Occasional headache, belching, bad taste in the mouth, lack of appetite and slight nervousness are symptoms of indigestion which, when allowed to go uncared for, will develop into a case of dyspepsia that will take a long time to get rid of. Don't neglect your stomach.
At the first indication of trouble take something that will help it along in its work of digesting the food you eat.
Kodol For Indigestion and Dyspepsia will do this. Kodol will make your food do you good and will enable you to enjoy what you eat. Sold by Page &

A VOICE FROM RUSSELL.

Mr. Editor:—I cannot express the gratitude I have for you in complimenting me in publishing my own words, and I expect by the help of Almighty God, to make those words true. I want, and intend to go down after the leaders of the Republican party for all there is in it. While I will reserve the greatest respect for those who have been misled by them, I want to explain their wrongs in words so convincing with facts, that my adversaries can never gainsay or deny. I want to slip that old sheep skin of hypocrisy from around them, and show the world the wolf there is inside of it. I want to draw them from their hiding place, and shake them over all their black and rotten doctrine they have deceived the ignorant and honest with for the last forty years. I want to meet them on their own grounds, and confront all their propositions, fight them with their own weapons, and like David did Goliath, cut their heads off with their own campaign swords, and bury them in their own political graves they have dug for themselves.

Yours truly,
JOHN M. SULLIVAN.

People's Cure for Stomach Ills

It would be folly to say that a person should always be his own doctor. There are times when it is best to seek in consulting a competent and reliable physician, but the fact does remain that there are many ailments that can be cured at home very little expense. Such remedies can be bought at any five-cent drug store for small change.

Among the diseases that can be effectively treated at home are such as pertaining to the stomach, liver and bowels, like constipation, dyspepsia, biliousness, flatulence, heartburn, headache, toothaches, heartburn etc. For these troubles there is no better remedy than Dr. Caldwell's Peppermint Syrup. It is a safe medicine and among its staunchest advocates are the doctors themselves. In such troubles that know no relief, the doctor prescribes this syrup.

Often happens that at the commencement of an attack some persons hesitate to take medicine, fearing it will not do any good. A good case in point is that of Mr. Herrin of Lawrenceville, Ill., who had a severe attack of colic and cramps of the stomach. He was given up to die by his physician. He took Dr. Caldwell's Peppermint Syrup and was soon relieved. He couldn't digest what little he did eat, had severe pains in the stomach, and finally, nothing would touch him except the Peppermint Syrup. Ultimately was advised to try Dr. Caldwell's Peppermint Syrup and he was soon relieved. He naturally all recovered from weak stomach so use it to be sure. It is absolutely guaranteed and the results are absolutely guaranteed or money is refunded.
